

CertTEALS: Certificate in Teaching English as a Life Skill

The Certificate in Teaching English as a Life Skill is an initial qualification for English teachers in the UK and overseas accredited by Trinity College London. This course focuses on teaching English as a life skill, that is, to develop the ability to function effectively in English in an international world. A proficient TEALS practitioner focuses on the life objectives of the learner and has the skills, knowledge and confidence to help them to overcome barriers to effective communication and realise their objectives through English.

Successful candidates receive two certifications: the Certificate in Teaching English as a Life Skill (CertTEALS) and the Certificate in Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages (Trinity CertTESOL).

Courses for aviation professionals

Our range of Aviation English courses is designed to enable professionals within the aviation industry to achieve the level of English their work requires. Our Aviation English programmes are trusted by airlines and aviation training schools and provide the necessary English and communication skills pilots, air traffic controllers, ground staff and cabin crew need to meet international standards and excel in their jobs.

ICAO level 4

This closed group programme is run on demand at Regent London, Regent Cambridge, Regent Oxford and Regent Edinburgh and is designed specifically for personnel who require ICAO Level 4 (Operational). We develop vocabulary, comprehension and communication skills within aviation related scenarios. This course is suitable for pilots and air traffic control staff, is tailor made to your exact requirements and runs for 25 hours per week. We accept groups of 6 or 12 participants depending on your training requirements.

Language Improvement for Aviation Professionals

This small group programme is offered at Regent London, Regent Cambridge and Regent Oxford. The course consists of 20 or 25 hours study per week, including 5 individual sessions a week to help you focus on your own set of specific needs. Morning lessons with no more than 5 other participants focus on grammar, vocabulary, pronunciation, spoken communications skills, including clarity of speech. Through a combination of seminar style presentations, practical assignments and interactive tasks you develop your skills and confidence.

Aviation English Home Tuition

Regent Home Tuition offers 1:1 tuition in aviation English for all levels and purposes including ICAO level 4. Home Tuition is a unique programme combining intensive language training and living in the home of your personal tutor. It is a highly intensive total immersion course in which your language skills develop quickly and naturally. In one-to-one lessons you learn the essential skills, knowledge and language that you need. We design the course to suit aviation personnel from ground staff to pilots. We place participants with trainers with experience and expertise in aviation and related fields.
